01 . (An) Once there was a kind and generous king. He looked after his people well. His people, in return, loved him and worked hard to build the country their country was very prosperous.

04. (An) Unfortunately, as time passed, the king became lazy. He ate a lot of unhealthy food and waste his time on trivial things. He hated doing routine exercises usually expected of kings. Soon, he became overweight and fell sick often. The king, who had once been active and energetic, was now lethargic and unhappy.

07. (An) One day.....

12. (An) Next day, The king visited the wise man. It was a long walk to the wise man's house.

17. (An) For thirty days, the wise man made the king walk from the palace to his hut saying on each day that he had not yet found the herb for the cure. Gradually, with all the exercise, the king began to lose weight and feel better. On the 31st day
